

CV_ENG

Paolo Barcella (Bergamo 1979) is professor of Contemporary History at the University of Bergamo.

He obtained his PhD with a research project under the joint supervision of the University of Genoa and the University of Lausanne, studying Italian emigrant routes in Switzerland, through oral and written sources.

He is currently studying the history of Italian migrations (especially concerning Switzerland and the United States), the history and political movements of Northern Lombardy, and xenophobic cultures in Europe. He has published articles in journals and edited volumes, in addition to the monographs

- Con Valerio Furneri, Una vita migrante. Leonardo Zanier, sindacalista e poeta (1935-2017), Carocci, Roma, 2020.
- I frontalieri in Europa. Un quadro storico, Biblion, Milano, 2019.
- Per cercare lavoro. Donne e uomini dell'emigrazione italiana in Svizzera, Donzelli, Roma, 2018;
- Migranti in classe. Gli italiani in Svizzera tra scuola e formazione professionale, Ombre Corte, Verona, 2014;
- Emigrati italiani e Missioni cattoliche in Svizzera (1945-1975), Ecig, Genova, 2012.